

BERKELEY CLIMATE MAP — Climate Justice June 2025

Send adds and edits to bruceriodan@berkeley.edu

Climate justice is centered in much of the climate research, education and action at Berkeley. The first section of this BCCN Map shows the institutes and centers on campus where climate justice is an important focus. The second section lists many of the individual faculty and staff engaged in climate justice work.

Key topics include:

- Sustainable and equitable food systems
- Migration and forced displacement
- Community-informed policy making
- International climate justice practices and strategies
- Climate change impacts on marginalized, racialized, underrepresented communities
- Equitable climate change responses
- Just Climate Future grants
- Social and economic impacts in communities
- Refugees
- Housing justice
- Community power building
- Climate Justice Week
- Transforming extractive systems and economies
- Regenerative, equitable, sustainable economies
- Job creation and training for clean energy transition

First	Last	Dept/Area	Short Summary
	Berkeley Food Institute (BFI)	Campuswide	The Berkeley Food Institute seeks to transform food systems to expand access to healthy, affordable food and promote sustainable and equitable food production. We empower new leaders with capacities to cultivate diverse, just, resilient, and healthy food systems. Current global food systems have achieved remarkable historical growth and expansion, yet increasingly fail on many fronts. The BFI addresses many of the impediments to systemic change in food systems by creating productive connections between members of the scholarly community, farmers and other producers, non-governmental organizations, governments, and civil society. Jeanne Merrill, Executive Director
	Berkeley Inter-Disciplinary Migration Initiative (BIMI)	Campuswide – Institute for Governmental Studies	We are a partnership of faculty, researchers and students who investigate human mobility, immigrants’ integration and the ways migration transforms societies around the world. Harpreet Mangat, Executive Director
	Center for Climate and Society	Campuswide	The Climate and Society Center brings together UC Berkeley faculty and students with California Environmental Justice activists and lawmakers, to undertake critical research on specific policy goals that will support California’s transformation to renewable energy with zero-carbon emissions for all communities. Central to the Climate and Society Center’s mission is ensuring that policy recommendations are grounded in data-based, rigorous research and are community-informed. Our vision is that research combined with political action will speed up reducing pollution and improving climate resiliency and health of EJ and indigenous communities, along with reducing California’s greenhouse gas emissions.

	Center for Effective Global Action (CEGA)	Campuswide	CEGA's mission is to improve the lives of people living in poverty by generating key insights for policymakers backed by rigorous and transparent research. CEGA is an international hub for research, training, and innovation headquartered at Berkeley. We generate insights that leaders can use to improve policies, programs, and people's lives. Our academic network includes more than 150 faculty, 65 scholars from low- and middle-income countries, and hundreds of graduate students—from across academic disciplines and across the globe—that produce rigorous evidence about what works to expand education, health, and economic opportunities for people living in poverty. Carson Christiano, Executive Director, Joshua Blumenstock, Faculty Co-Director, Edward Miguel, Faculty Co-Director
	Center for Law, Energy & the Environment	Law	CLEE believes solving our most pressing environmental challenges requires actionable research, training, and engagement to accelerate the implementation of solutions. CLEE tackles climate change and other environmental challenges at the local to global scale through the development and implementation of equitable and effective legal and policy solutions. Our expert staff leverages the world's leading public research university to engage community leaders, government, business, and other stakeholders; to lead timely and practical research initiatives; and to train leaders to take action on our most pressing environmental problems. Dan Farber, Faculty Director, Louise Bedsworth, Executive Director

	Human Rights Center Climate Justice Program	Law	Our Climate Justice program addresses the human impacts of climate change. As the climate changes, the prevalence and ferocity of extreme weather events — severe heat waves, torrential rains, alarming floods, extensive droughts, and destructive wildfires — are increasing. Such events drastically affect peoples’ lives — their health, livelihood, housing, access to food and water, and personal security. We listen to understand the perspectives and needs of people most at risk due to climate change, especially when those risks are being overlooked by policymakers. Our research results in recommendations to create new laws and policies, news articles, health and technology interventions, and industry guidance to better protect the human rights of people in affected communities. Betsy Popken, Executive Director
	Institute of Urban and Regional Development	College of Environmental Design	The Institute of Urban & Regional Development is an interdisciplinary academic and research unit dedicated to prioritizing justice in initiatives to understand, mitigate, and adapt to climate change. As a research hub, IURD acts as a catalyst for public and private investments in adaptation and resilience, and foster new models of community-engaged research with tangible outcomes. We seek outcomes that provide actionable

This includes translation of research information. Karen Frick, Director Kristina Hill, Program Director
	Latinx and the Environment	ESPM	The Latinxs and the Environment Initiative is a 3 year old effort that seeks to establish a comprehensive program designed to generate knowledge and encourage increased study and research on Latinxs and the environment—both in the U.S. and abroad with the coordinated participation of policy makers, community based organizations (CBOs) and the academic community. Leadership: Federico Castillo, Lupe Gallegos Diaz
	Lau Grants for Just Climate Futures (College of Environmental Design)	CED	The College of Environmental Design has awarded accelerator Lau Grants for Just Climate Futures to Professor of Architecture Luisa Caldas, Associate Professor of Landscape Architecture & Environmental Planning Lu Liang, and Assistant Professor of Landscape Architecture & Environmental Planning Danielle Zoe Rivera. Cross-disciplinary teams will work over the next six months to develop scalable, place-based solutions to the climate crisis.

	Opportunity Lab	L&S Social Sciences	The Opportunity Lab serves as the central research hub for UC Berkeley scholars conducting cutting-edge research on social and economic inequality in the United States. The O-Lab’s mission is to build new insights into the causes and consequences of inequality, and to provide policymakers with evidence-based solutions promoting equity and opportunity for all. The Opportunity Lab’s Climate and Society Initiative supports research to better understand how environmental conditions and externalities are affecting families and communities, while also examining the economic consequences of policies designed to combat or mitigate climate change and pollution. Hilary Hoynes, Faculty Director
	Othering and Belonging Institute (OBI)	Campuswide	The Othering and Belonging Institute advances groundbreaking approaches to transforming structural marginalization and inequality. We are scholars, organizers, communicators, researchers, artists, and policymakers committed to building a world where all people belong. The Othering & Belonging Institute's existing body of climate justice work includes our work on climate refugees, on housing justice, on community power-building, and more. john a. powell, Director, Elsadig Elsheikh Director, Global Justice Program. Hossein Ayazi Project Policy Analyst, Global Justice Program OBI is co-leading the Climate Migration and Forced Displacement Project for the State of California

Marion Fourcade, Executive Director, Eva Seto, Associate Director
	Socio-Spatial Collaborative (SC2)	Social Science Matrix	The Socio-Spatial Climate Collaborative, or (SC)², is a hub for critical social science research on the climate emergency. (SC)² is hosted by Berkeley's Social Science Matrix. (SC)² research investigates the intersections of the climate emergency, political economy, inequalities, and the built environment. Our mission at (SC)2 is to tackle the biggest climate social science challenges that we can manage. We aim to conduct this research in collaboration with scholars across the country and world, and in constant dialogue with various publics — general readers, community groups, social movements, labor unions, elected politicians and their staff. We select projects and research methods with the goal of informing public debate — and action. Daniel Aldana Cohen, Director
	Student Environmental Resources Center (SERC)	Campuswide	SERC, launched in 2012, cultivates a collaborative space to strengthen the collective effectiveness of the sustainability community and provides resources for students to actualize their visions of a more equitable, socially just, and resilient future. SERC's current Strategic Plan is built around 5 areas: Environmental Education Community Engagement

	The Katherine S. and James K. Lau Graduate Fellowship in Climate Equity	RCNR	The Katherine and James Lau Fellowship supports doctoral students pursuing climate equity and/or environmental justice research with an emphasis on ameliorating the impacts of climate change on vulnerable populations and addressing root causes of inequality. Selection will focus on research that is interdisciplinary in nature and community-based. We encourage applicants to describe how will they will work with a community partner, or partners in a public agency; if applicants have not already developed such a partnership, we expect them to explain how they will do so with the help of this grant as well as how the partnership is critical to addressing the research question(s). Proposals may demonstrate work on the ground and should clearly explain the expected pathway for impact and scaling solutions. Priority will be given to students who are actively conducting fieldwork or planning to conduct field work. ONLY students who have advanced to candidacy are eligible for this fellowship. Non US residents are eligible to apply. Eligible students may come from the colleges (departments) participating in the climate equity cluster hire including: College of Engineering, Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering; College of Environmental Design; College of Letters and Science, Social Science Division; Rausser College of Natural
